Applicant has been notified that claims in this application conflict with claims in copending application 10/608,809. Current PTO practice consistent with potential patent term adjustments for interference dictates that any claims that potentially interfere among related pending applications be sorted from claims that do not interfere. See MPEP 2304.01(d):

This way examination can proceed for any claims that do not interfere without the delay that will result from the interference. Interfering claims of an applicant are "conflicting claims" within the meaning of 37 CFR1.78(b). The examiner may require consolidation of such claims into any disclosure of the applicant that provides support for the claims. 35 U.S.C. 132(a).

As noted previously, claims 37 and 38 clearly conflict with claims 41 and 45 of the copending application that involves a potential interference with a US Patent. Dependent claim 41 is included with the above claims based on the admission by the applicant made on page 2 of the specification. Specifically, in discussing the prior art in ventilators, they indicate clearly that crossflow, concurrent flow, and counterflow arrangements are all known in the art. Thus, since claim 41 differs from potentially conflicting/interfering claims only in subject matter deemed to be obvious by applicant's own admission of its well-known nature, claim 41 is properly grouped with claims 37 and 38.

Thus, the pending claims in the application are sorted into three groups:

Nonelected (39, 40, 44, 45, and 48-52)

Conflicting (37, 38, and 41)

Nonconflicting (42, 43, 46, and 47).

Sorting of the claims is deemed appropriate since the applicant clearly has support for the conflicting claims in the disclosure of the copending application. Thus, applicant is required to cancel or consolidate the conflicting claims listed above into copending application 10/608,809. The nonconflicting claims listed above depend from conflicting claims, and the appropriate action for applicant to take, subsequent to cancellation or consolidation of the conflicting claims, is to rewrite the nonconflicting dependent claims as independent claims incorporating the subject matter of the claim(s) from which they depend.

Applicant is given ONE MONTH from the date of mailing of this Office action to take appropriate action consistent with the above requirement.
